Counselling Case Study

Najrana Sheikh a student of special Marathi was a regular student attending classes of Psychology but never used to ask questions as she was coming from a minority section. She initially felt aloof from other students. She was average in studies but had good attention at lectures and tried to understand the concepts. One reason behind not speaking during lectures and after lectures was her problem in speech. She was not able to speak properly. She also had a problem of jaw which was not normal. These all problems made her introvert, shy & low in confidence.

Observing all these factors I decided to interact with her purposefully through academic questions and later indirectly for the development of personality. I also motivated her to take part in Students Academy, Teacher's Day Competition and Article Writing Competition. These were the places where she had an opportunity to develop her confidence and felt of being one of all students. She was also seen making friends and being in group and involving in group activities.

Her personality was more shaped through participation in a Ten day Soft Skills Development Program through which she learnt and understood various soft skills. She enjoyed being a part of it. Attended all the sessions and completed the participated in the power point presentation completion. By the end of reaching TYBA she was expressive, asking questions and interested in academics, self-development and serious about her career.

But still she had one more hitch that how an Arts student can be ambitious and get a job? After passing out from the college she came for suggestion regarding her further education. I suggested to go for Journalism or B.Lib / M.Lib. She opted for B.Lib and pursue her career into it. While she was learning she opted for part time job a local library in Nashik and after some months she was selected as a librarian in Mumbai on a permanent post.
