Nashik Shikshan Prasarak Mandal's Late Bindu Ramrao Deshmukh Arts, Commerce and Science Mahila Mahavidhyalaya Nashik Road, under the Department of Sociology, a seven-day credit course on gender sensitivity was conducted from 1st April to 7th April 2024 from 10 am to 4 pm. This course was inaugurated by Hon. Alkatali Kulkarni, Member, Nashik Shikshan Prasarak Mandal's, Principal in charge Dr. Sameer Limbare and key speaker Hon. Asawari Deshpande, Director, Nashik Division, Pravara Medical was present. Asawari Deshpande while guiding the students said that Gender is the social discrimination between men and women which means it is created by society and culture. Gender changes according to caste, religion and culture. Gender is constructed in a patriarchal society and tends to favor men. The toys given to boys and girls at a young age are different. It shapes the personality of boys and girls. Due to gender discrimination, women's rights, share in wealth are denied and women are forced to do housework. It was opined that child marriage, female feticide and domestic violence lead to exploitation of women and sometimes even death of some women. He said that the problems of women in unprotected areas are different. In this, supporting women who sell body, taking care of their health and educating their children are done as social service.

Prof. Anuja Nehe gave legal information about the harassment of women in the workplace. Prof. Dr. Praveen Ghodeswar, Open University Nashik, guided the students on Gender and Media, Prof. Dr. Umesh Shinde Gender and Adivasi, Prof. Dr. Avinash Neve while understanding gender, Dr. Vinod Nirabhavane Gender and Social Organization, Dr. Sharmila Bhavsar on Gender and Emotional Intelligence, Deepak Shinde Gender and Land Ownership, Prof. Pooja Gangode Gender and Advertising, Prof. Shobha Pawar Gender and Human Transport, Prof. Sanjay Savale Gender and Interrelatedness and Prof. Mansi Godse, gender equality and female foeticide etc. Participating students presented their research paper and it was examined by Mr. Avinash Neve.
