S.Y.B.A. Compulsory English (2014-15)

The revised course helps to develop competence among the students for self-learning. It familiarizes the students with excellent pieces of prose and poetry in English so that they realize the beauty and communicative power of English. It develops students' interest in reading literary pieces. However the part of grammar introduced is tiresome and unexciting due to vast and lengthy topics.

Mr. Prakash Warkari

S. Y. B. A. General English (2014-15)

Title of the Paper: Study of English Language and Literature

The present course exposes the students to the basics of short story. Different types of short stories in English are introduced to the students. They understand the literary merit, beauty and creative use of language. It prepares students to go for detailed study and understanding of literature and language. It develops integrated view about language and literature in them. However, the syllabus of Phonology is too vast. The students get the glimpses of the topic. The teaching hours seem to be limited. The question paper pattern focuses only on the theoretical aspect of understanding the concepts. The practical application doesn't seem to be possible to the expected level.
